MES Seminar

Effective Production with MES

The Value of MES
Best-Practices: MES in practical use

October 28th, 2009

9:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Background

To remain competitive, today's manufacturing companies face many challenges including optimization of production processes, increasing productivity and meeting on-time delivery requirements. Manufacturing Execution Systems (MES) are meant to address these issues and can be seen as the link between management and the shop floor. MES provide the ability to quickly resolve scheduling and control problems and create transparency over the whole manufacturing process.

Content of the MES seminar

As a participant, you will gain valuable information on how to answer the following questions:

- What optimization potentials can I achieve by implementing MPDV's MES solution?
- What manufacturing process data can be captured and analyzed?
- What key figures can be obtained from captured data?
- What practical experience has resulted from using MPDV's MES solutions?

Who should attend?

This seminar is intended for manufacturing decision-makers involved in optimizing production processes.

The target group includes:

- CEOs and Owners
- Controllers
- Plant Managers
- Production Managers
- Quality Managers
- IT Managers
